Substance of Mars' Surface To Be Studied by Princetonian as Climax of Viking Flight

For most of his adult life, Princeton University Geology Professor Robert B. Hargraves has been what can only be described as a rock hound. Back in his native South Africa, Dr. Hargraves did mineral explorations on behalf of mining companies there. After coming to the United States in 1952, he prospected for uranium in the Southwest and for copper in Newfoundland before attending graduate school in Princeton.

Today, Dr. Hargraves is no less a rock hound. One of the professor's favorite gadgets is a small, portable drill that he uses to take core samples on summer field trips. But in the coming months, his actual "digging" will probably be confined to the garden behind his home at 74 7 Great Road and to the taking of occasional divots at Springdale Golf Club. Not that he suddenly considers picking and scraping through dirt and rocks unworthy tasks. The problem is that his latest geological interests are never any closer than 4 0 million miles away from earth.

Professor Hargraves, along with a team of scientists from around the United States, hopes to do his next "prospecting" on the surface of Mars.

This summer Dr. Hargraves and other members of NASA's Viking Project will watch anxiously as an automated, miniaturized scientific laboratory is launched from the Kennedy Space Center. If all goes well, the August 11 launch will conclude with a soft landing on Mars July 4, 1976--a date chosen for astronomical reasons as well as its commemorative significance.

Then about a month later a second spacecraft should descend to the surface of Mars. Together they will transmit data and pictures back to earth until at least November of 1976, during which time Dr. Hargraves and the 65 other scientists working on the project will be headquartered at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., analyzing the information.

These scientists will not be prospecting for precious minerals. The object of their inquiry will be a simple one. "We hope to determine whether there is life now on Mars, either active or hibernating, or whether there was once life on Mars that is now expired," says Dr. Hargraves.

"The classic theory about Mars was that there were great canals and a seasonal variation in color that was due to a seasonal advance and retreat of a plant covering. Now, despite the recent close-up photographs from the Mariner project, we have found no detectable signs of life. The seasonal wave is now thought to be related to an ice cap, growing and receding."

If there's ice, there must be water also, right? "Again, we have no evidence of water," explains the professor. "It appears to be mostly dry ice. The experiments will have a heavy emphasis on trying to assess whether there is any liquid water or whether there is ice and then--bingo!--gas."

Dr. Hargraves is no stranger to extra-terrestrial prospecting. Along

Council Extends Rent-Levelling 2 More Years

Tenants and landlords in the Borough will have another two years of rent-levelling. Council passed Tuesday night an extension and modification of the present ordinance by a 5-0 vote, ailing Council member Murray Medvin absent.

The new ordinance retains the Consumer Price Index (CPI) as the baseline for rent increases. It allows landlords to pass along some of the cost of capital improvements to the tenants. For landlords with hardship cases, it allows a profit based on a formula which is in turn based on the fair market value of the property.

"It's not perfect—it's an approximation of perfection," said Mayor Robert W. Cawley of the new ordinance.

"The objective of the ordinance is NOT to lower housing costs," said Council member Robert Powell, "the idea two years ago, when we passed the original ordinance, was to prevent unconscionable rent increases that were driving people out of town, and to keep the incentive for landlords to maintain rental housing. We were willing to accept some rent increases as a price for preventing the kind of 50 percent increases some landlords were gouging."

Landlords More Vocal. Landlords in Tuesday night's audience were more vocal than tenants and apparently more numerous. Landlord Hans Lechner, who sits on the five-member Rent Levelling Board created by the 1973 ordinance and sustained in expanded numbers (to seven members) by this one, asked plaintively where would it all end?

"Every two years? Every four years?" he asked council. "Keeping this ordinance will undermine real estate values. You'll never get rid of it." "There are still questions about the effect of rent levelling on housing," Mayor Cawley replied, "that's why we're extending it."

The mayor revealed at the start of the public hearing that there is a startling difference between the number of rentals registered and the list of landlords announcing rent increases. There are 384 registered units NOT reporting increases, he said.

Mayor and Council members said they could not explain the figure. Landlords in the audience said not every landlord imposes rent increases, and many who do, don't go the whole way allowed by the CPI.

When landlord Robert Cook asked landlords sitting around him in the Council chamber whether they had raised rents to the CPI limit, they all said no. (Besides Mr. Cook, they included Gerald Silvester, Alfred Kahn, Hans Lechner, Arthur Van Tobel.)

Speaking for Tenants . . . Jaye Scholl, 66 Linden Lane, carried the banner for the tenants. She, like Mr. Lechner is on the Rent Levelling board, but on the opposite side of the fence. She castigated Council for continuing to use the CPI and announced that she favored a rent freeze. "What if the CPI goes 'way down'?" she challenged. "Then the landlords will pick something else to use."

Landlords present pounced on her for this, and Mayor Cawley's gavel had to come down before the hearing could proceed.

Ms. Scholl urged Council to use assessed value, rather than market value in hardship cases. "Landlords only have to figure out what rent they want, tell the bank 'I can get $300 for my apartment' and the value of the building goes up."

Council and Mayor told her the Rent Levelling board could require an independent appraisal at the landlord's expense. Mr. Powell pointed out that many older Borough houses with tenants, are only assessed at 35% to 40% of their true value.

Alan Wallack, chairman of the Rent Levelling Board, dressed down Ms. Scholl for her attack on Council: and pointed out that she had sat in on many discussions of the ordinance.

Urging Council to pass the new measure, he said, "This ordinance makes a decent ordinance a heck of a lot better. It protects tenants and provides incentives for landlords."

But tenant Robert McChesney, 158 Spruce, said three Spruce Street landlords had told him they felt impelled to raise rents under the ordinance because they didn't want to be caught short if another base rent were established.

Mr. Silvester, from the landlords side, told Council to pass the ordinance. "I've seen more loopholes to raise my rents than I ever have before," he grinned, and he charged tenants "You want to live in Princeton, but you don't want to pay Princeton prices."

From the Council bench, Barbara Sigmund said the CPI didn't make her very happy. "It's capricious," she observed, "it was 13% in January, but it's only 8.4 percent now, so tenants of the same landlord get different rent increases."

Summer Rerun: Township Committee Listens To Debate Over Mt. Lucas Public Housing Site

The usual summer re-run of pros and cons on the Mt. Lucas Road public housing site occupied Township Committee until nearly midnight Monday.

About halfway through, Thomas Jamieson, attorney for the Housing Authority of Princeton and developer Benedict Yedlin, observed darkly that Mr. Yedlin's options to buy the ten-acre site expire in November, so this may be the last hot summer of debate.

Committee was listening to an appeal by three protesting neighbors of the project from conditional site-plan approval granted in June by the Princeton Regional Planning Board.

These same three—James L. Green, 688 Ewing; William Brower, 628 Ewing and Robert Dorant, 288 Mt. Lucas—have also appealed the ruling of Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch that Township Committee acted properly when it approved the 100-unit housing project. Their appeal was filed June 23 in the court's Appellate Division.

Technically, it was the site-plan approval only that brought the neighbors to Township Hall. But in painstaking and repeated questioning, Mayor Jay Bleiman nailed down the fact that the objectors also want Township Committee to reconsider the whole question of planting 100 units of housing on the site.

The Planning Board, declared Col. Green in a lengthy and detailed statement, did not ask what is the best number of housing units for the 10-acre site. He characterized the project as "grossly inconsistent" with the 4.2 units per acre which he said was set down in the "village" housing concept outlined two years ago by the Planning Board's housing sub-committee.

45 Units "Acceptable." He and his colleagues, he said would accept the 4.2 density figure for the Mt. Lucas site—about 45 or 46 units instead of the proposed 100.

Col. Green also protested that the site plan presented in April of this year and conditionally approved in June, isn't the same as the one presented by the Housing Authority and Mr. Yedlin in 1972 and subsequent years, when they were seeking variances.

Originally, Mr. Yedlin had the option to buy 14 acres of land, but he lost the option on four. Also, the mix was changed from 50 units each for elderly and for families to 60 for elderly and 40 for families. A different architect was brought in to re-design the project.

Finally, Col. Green suggested that Committee was under "pressures" from Mr. Yedlin, the Authority and perhaps individual members of the Planning Board.

The hearing was not so hot-tempered as housing meetings in the past, but when Golda Gottlieb, chairman of the Planning Board's housing sub-committee, rose to comment on Col. Green's "village" density figures, he shouted "She has no right!" to speak. But Mrs. Gottlieb persisted.

"The 4.2 figure is an overall figure," she emphasized, "densities in some areas, under the village plan, could go as high as 20 to the acre."

"Village" Concept. After the meeting, she said the housing sub-committee, in working out its "village" proposals, assumed that the Yedlin project and the 240-unit Princeton Community Village had already been built and occupied.

Mayor Bleiman explained to Col. Green that the "village" idea had been evolved by the Planning Board's housing sub-committee, not had not been formally adopted by the Board itself or incorporated into any master plan.

In rebuttal, Mr. Jamieson acknowledged that the wording of the use variance given by the Zoning Board, did allow the Planning Board to consider the number of units "if reasonably related" to site plan review standards. But the overall reduction of the 100 units cannot come up again because the issue has already been decided, he said, and can't be re-opened.

However, he continued, the Planning Board didn't speak

WHAT WILL THE MARTIANS THINK? This contraption may look like something from Mars, but in fact it is headed to Mars. Actually a miniature, remote controlled scientific laboratory, standing about five feet high, this spacecraft is part of the Viking expedition that is scheduled to land on the surface of Mars next summer. Princeton Professor Robert Hargraves will study photographs of any dirt clinging to a permanent magnet attached to the surface sampler, the arm-like apparatus sticking out from the left side of the laboratory. The disc-shaped antenna is part of a $25 million communications system built for the project by RCA Astro-Electronics Division, Millstone Road.

molecules," says Professor Hargraves.

Among the scientists working on the project are three who did graduate work at Princeton with Dr. Hargraves: Gerald A. Soffen, now a biologist at the Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va.; Thomas A. Mutch, a geology professor at Brown; and William H. Michael Jr., also a scientist at Langley.

Communications by RCA. The data that these and other scientists will work with will be relayed to earth by a $25 million communications system designed and built by RCA's Astro-Electronic Division on Millstone Road. The system will also receive instructions sent from earth to the laboratory.

The experiment being conducted by Professor Hargraves utilizes simply a permanent magnet attached to the bottom of the soil sampler that will scrape dirt from the Martian surface. Any magnetic matter would cling to the sampler and will be photographed in color for Dr. Hargraves' study.

Dr. Hargraves hopes that the magnetic studies will give some clue as to the relative amounts of pure iron metal or iron oxides on the Martian surface. Iron metal, rare on the earth but common in an environment devoid of oxygen, such as the moon, is magnetic. Some iron oxides are not magnetic.

with Lincoln S. Hollister, of 295 Harrison Street, an associate professor of geology, he has analyzed rock samples brought back to earth from the moon by the Apollo astronauts.

On the Viking Project, Dr. Hargraves will be in charge of investigating magnetic properties of the Martian surface. Other teams of scientists will attempt to assess biological characteristics of the Mars surface; physical and inorganic chemical properties; seismometry; meteorology; and thermal conditions.

The equipment used to conduct these experiments is complicated, but the basic procedures are simple. A long mechanical arm, the surface sampler, will reach out, scrape up some dirt, and then deposit it in an appropriate part of the Viking lander. "In effect we'll be digging up some dirt, giving it water, and cooking it up. We'll be trying to get some evidence of biological activity, or the presence of organic

CHANGE IN PCH RENTS

Formula Shifted. It looks as though a middle-income family of four may yet be able to afford an apartment in middle-income Princeton Community Village. Township Mayor Jay Bleiman received a call Tuesday from Patricia Hampton, area director of HUD (the Federal Housing and Urban Development Agency) authorizing a small shift in current guidelines that will help Princeton—some.

The shift means that a family of four, for example, can now come under the $11,800 a year ceiling in Section 8 of the law, instead of the $10,150 figure of the old Section 236. In addition, PCH is now allowed to make deductions that help even more: a 5 percent deduction from gross income plus $300 for each minor child.

Suppose the family of four makes $13,000. Subtract $650 (5 percent) and $600 for the two kids, and you have an adjusted income of $11,750—which is within the ceiling of $11,800, even though the actual income is $13,000.

Using the $13,000 figure, that family would have to pay rents amounting to 38 percent to 40 percent of income. This way, the rent would be about 25 percent of income, which is regarded as normal.

"This is a positive advance," Mayor Bleiman emphasized, "but Hampton has promised to keep looking. I'd like her to make a case with her New York— and eventually, Washington—office that Princeton has what zoning boards call a 'special reasons'. What she did is great, it just doesn't go far enough to raise income ceilings."

The disjointed relationship between income and rents has been keeping families in the $10,000 to $13,000 range out of PCH because they must pay so-called "market" rents, sometimes 40 percent of income. This means police, teachers and those in similar brackets— for whom PCH was built— are being priced out.

IT'S AUTOMATIC

Township's New Truck. Clutching at every dollar in times like these, Township Committee decided Monday night to transmit taxpayers' money to a dump truck with automatic transmission instead of one with standard. Costs $2,000 more to start, but maintenance will be cheaper, in the opinion of Township Engineer Joseph Hodak. The new $15,090 truck will replace a 1962 model.

Queried by Committee member William Sutphin, who said he'd always thought automatics needed more maintenance, Mr. Hodak explained that clutches tend to burn out at the low speeds travelled by dump trucks. (The truck is also used for snow-plowing and spreading sand.)

Counting his pennies, Mr. Sutphin said he'd like to see records of Township maintenance expenses. Too much paper-work to maintain such records, Mr. Hodak countered, but he said it costs about $250 to repair a standard transmission, and estimated that the job was done eight or nine times over the 13-year life of the 1962 truck.

Difference in gasoline mileage is "minor," said Administrator Joseph R. Nini — about one-mile-per-gallon difference, and Mr. Hodak shrugged off this difference as "not worth commenting on," even though Mr. Sutphin protested that with gas going up, the difference might be worth a word or two.

In the end, he abstained from the 5-0 vote. Not enough data for "meaningful judgment," he said.

In other business, Committee accepted all over again the resignation from the Zoning Board of James E. Ward. He had originally resigned because, in his new job with the attorney general's office, he will be investigating municipal corruption and his new employers thought it would be best if he got off the Township Zoning Board. But, since Princeton Township is pure as driven snow, Committee members asked Mr. Ward to re-consider and stay on the board. Second thoughts, however, convinced everyone it might be better if he resigned. It would look better,

"My major problem will be trying to distinguish magnetic iron oxide from iron metal," he says. "It's very difficult to say anything specific about some dirt clinging to the bottom of this surface sampler. But with certain infrared filters on the camera we might be able to reach some conclusions."

The Red Planet. The equilibrium state of iron in an environment depends on the composition of the atmosphere, Dr. Hargraves explains. The presence of even small amounts of oxygen can change the iron metal to a red iron oxide. "Mars has always been known as the red planet and maybe that color is due to the presence of iron that has been oxidized," he says.

"But remember that only minute amounts of oxygen are needed to oxidize iron. Maybe the iron has sucked up all the oxygen that was in the atmosphere."

Dr. Hargraves hopes to have some answers to these questions by mid-November of 1976 when the primary mission is scheduled to be completed. At that time Mars goes into what astronomers call "conjunction," meaning that it will be out of the communication line from earth.

Mars comes back into sight about 21 days later but by that time more earthly pressures may work against continuing the project. Further funding of the project remains up in the air.

"If we still have two viable laboratories up there, it would be a shame not to keep them going," laments Professor Hargraves.

Magnetic Tracing. Professor Hargraves has been involved in the field of rock magnetism, and a related area called "paleomagnetism," since he did his Ph.D. dissertation at Princeton.

Paleomagnetism, he explains, is a way of determining the geographical position of rocks by studying their magnetic properties. "When rocks are being formed, in the course of cooling and crystalizing, minute magnetic mineral particles are lined up and slowly cemented into position parallel to the earth's natural magnetic field."

"If you know the orientation of the lines of magnetic force at the time the rock was formed," he says, "then you can determine where the pole was relative to the rock when it was formed."

In 1959, when Dr. Hargraves received his Ph.D., the controversial theory of continental drift was being bruited about by scientists. "I grew up partially indoctrinated in favor of it," he recalls. "Scientists from the Southern Hemisphere have always been interested in this theory."

Strange Fossils. As a geology student in South Africa, Dr. Hargraves became aware of the startling juxtaposition of rocks and fossils representing extremely cold climates with others from a tropical climate. "Durban, my hometown, is a subtropical spa," he says. "It's hard to believe it could ever be so cold there."

The prevailing theory was climatic variations were so extreme that continental glaciers could be formed in tropical areas. "It was difficult for us to imagine this," Dr. Hargraves says. "But it was equally difficult for others to believe that entire continents could go drifting along the earth's surface. Rocks seem so rigid."

But through the techniques of paleomagnetism, rocks were being scrutinized. Rocks such as those from the Rocky Hill quarry, for example, show similar paleomagnetic qualities to samples of approximately the same age taken from Morocco in western Africa.

One way to reconcile that fact, says Dr. Hargraves, is by the theory of continental drift. "It's very likely that this part of New Jersey was once separated from what is now Morocco and Spanish Sahara by nothing more than a narrow seaway. The earth might have been cracking just at this time and out through those cracks came the molten material that formed these rocks."

But all of this is being investigated by the most sophisticated forms of scientific inquiry. For now, Dr. Hargraves is turning his sights to Mars and returning to the basics of geological exploration.

"My part of the experiment up there, in its simplicity, is nothing more than scratching at the dirt," says Dr. Hargraves, still a rock hound.

Regional Planning Board, which had been asked to give the zoners a favorable recommendation for a use variance.

The applicant was the Dundas Corporation of Florida, the structure is the unfinished building on Nassau and Markham started by Timothy Sheehan.

Mr. Sheehan and Dundas want to expand the ground floor's 2,000 square feet of retail space by 2,120 square feet (six more stores); add two stories to the building and obtain a waiver of 52 parking spaces. The Planning Board at its July 1, meeting, was considering only the use variance request involved in expanding the retail space. (it was erroneously reported in last week's Town Topics that the two-story addition was also before the board. It was not.)

In litigation some years ago, Mr. Sheehan won a court ruling under which the Borough was ordered to apply its old B-2 zoning to the property. Retail stores are allowed in this zone, so the 2,000 square feet originally assigned to stores by Mr. Sheehan are in order. When he decided to expand to 2,120 feet, Borough Engineer Donald Harney said he'd have to get a use variance because this part of the Borough is now in the RO-1 zone, and retailing isn't a permitted use in that zone.

The memo to the Zoning Board, laboriously drafted at the Planning Board's July 1 meeting, pointed out that the proposed use doesn't conform to the Master Plan, although it is authorized by the court. If the proposal were coming before the board for the first time, the memo continues, the use "might be deemed questionable for the area affected"—the Jugtown area around the intersection of Nassau and Harrison. the other hand, says the memo, the Planning Board, "isn't satisfied that, in and of itself, the proposed retail use would necessarily have substantially greater adverse effect than the permissible office use." "The board has no consensus," the memo adds, "on the community need to be served."

And so it went. In the last of seven points, the memo says the Planning Board "would have no objection to the proposed use variance, in light of the unique and peculiar circumstances of the case."

Planning Board members Gottlieb, Barry, Lamar, Rose, Bleiman and Sander voted in favor. Vice-chairman Norman Williams voted against, and William Walker abstained. Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley, involved in current litigation with the applicant, abstained from the entire proceeding.

Site plan won't be considered until the Zoning Board decides on both the use variance application, and the bulk application to add the additional stories.

BOY, 7, IS STRUCK

By Car on Harrison Street. Mark Liu, 7, 9 Sergeant Street, was struck by a car early last week on Harrison Street at Sergeant.

According to police, the driver, Mrs. Maywood Mach, 215 Hartley Avenue, was passing a car illegally parked on the west curb of Harrison when the youth suddenly darted out in front of the car into her path.

Thrown forward by the impact, young Liu was taken to Princeton Medical Center in a patrol car by Lt. John J. Bellow. He was treated for a mild concussion, lacerations and contusions. Passersby, attempting to give aid, had moved the victim prior to the arrival of the investigating officer, Ptl. Victor Fasanella.

There were no charges. Two witnesses in the police report corroborated Mrs. Mach's statement that the youth had run out into the path of her car without stopping.

Four Are Injured. Three members of one family and the driver of a second car were injured Thursday when their cars collided at the intersection of South Harrison and Hartley Avenue. Both had to be towed away.

Paul G. Nagy, 36, 51 Edgemere Avenue, Plainsboro, sustained lacerations of the face. His wife, Catherine, 36, received lacerations of the back and Catherine M. Nagy, 11, complained of neck pains.

The other driver, William C. Dillon, 54, 4 Fieldstone Road, received contusions and abrasions of the head. He was ticketed by Ptl. Mario Musso for failing to stop for a stop sign.

Mr. Dillon told Ptl. Musso that his vision to the right had been obscured by rain on his window and that he was unfamiliar with the area and didn't realize there was a stop sign at the Hartley intersection. He was under the impression, he said, that Harrison was the stop street.

YOUTH IS ARRESTED

For Apartment Robbery. Eighteen-year old Martin White, 123 John Street, was arrested by Borough police Monday night and charged with the robbery of $20 from a 26-year old apartment dweller on Witherspoon Street.

White was taken to Borough Jail when he was unable to post the $3,000 bail. Chief Michael Carnevale reported that the investigation is being continued by Sgt. Thomas Procaccino. The robbery, he said, took place in the victim's apartment.

Two More Arrested. Two Borough residents were arrested in connection with the extortion last week of $30 from two teenagers in what police described as a "drug rip-off."

Gerald Hall, 18, 44 Birch Avenue, was arrested at 12:54 Sunday at a basketball court at John and Clay Streets. Gary Marshall, 21, 68 Clay Street, was arrested early Monday afternoon at the same intersection.

Both have been charged with larceny and impersonating a police officer. Both have been released in $250 bail, pending an appearance August 6 in Borough court.

LAWN CHAIRS STOLEN

From Fenced Yard. Two aluminum lawn chairs with redwood arm rests were stolen last week from a fenced-in side yard of a Hawthorne Avenue home. They were valued at $40 each.

A $48 battery was removed Thursday from a car owned by Mrs. Ilona T. Fortiny, 255 Ewing Street. Police said that the car had been parked in the afternoon at the Princeton Shopping Center.

An eight-track tape deck valued at $135 was stolen last week from a car parked in the drive of its owner, Dr. J.C. Blumenthal, 49 Random Road. Police said that his car had been forced open.

VACANT HOMES ENTERED in Borough. Two vacant homes were entered last week in the Borough, one on Linden Lane and one on Elm Road.

The former was entered by way of a forced kitchen window and taken were a portable television set valued at $120, two AM-FM radios valued at $126 and a 35mm camera valued at $300.

The home on Elm yielded a color television set and stereo system but police said they will not know their value until the owner returns. There were no signs of forced entry.

Township police report an entry between 1 and 9 p.m. Sunday into the home of Samuel Wards, 15½ Leigh Avenue.

Taken were two cartons of cigarettes and a red flashlight. A dining room screen window had been torn open to get inside, police said. Ptl. John Clausen investigated.

FIRECRACKERS GO PRFF

At Dairy Queen. During the weekend, vandals cut a screen at the Dairy Queen in the Princeton Shopping Center and placed firecrackers between the screen and windows.

Police report that the firecrackers were apparently not powerful enough to damage the windows. The only damage was to the screen, police said.

Township police also report that a window of the athletic building on the Hun School campus was struck with an unidentified object early last week, breaking it. Ptl. David Funk investigated.

TWO ARE FINED

For Careless Driving. Two Princeton residents were fined Monday in Borough traffic court for careless driving.

Phillip T. Aillhouse, Pretty Brook Road, was fined $25, $10 court costs and $10 for contempt of court. John C. McCulloch, 168 Herrontown Road, paid $20.

Fined for speeding were Stephen F. Heffner, 255 Nassau Street, $24; Kathleen Faher, 33 Fieldstone Road, $15; and Elizabeth P. Fish, 160 Lake Drive, $22. Thomas Johnson Jr., 84 Nassau Street, paid $20 for failing to observe a flashing traffic signal.

In criminal court last week, Borough Judge Philip Carchman fined Lloyd Parsells, 20, 36 Princeton Avenue, $35 each on separate charges of using loud and abusive language and being drunk and disorderly. Mr. Parsells also received a 10-day suspended jail sentence and was placed on probation for one year.

In Township Court last week, Stuart Minton, 422 Snowden Lane, was fined $20 for failing to give a proper signal. He pleaded not guilty.

William B. Uhl, 4277 Port Mercer Road, was fined $25 for operating an unsafe vehicle.

BURGLAR SURPRISED

By 12-Year Old Girl. A burglar inside a Princeton Junction home on Sherbrooke Drive last week was interrupted by the return of a 12-year old girl who lived there.

The girl told West Windsor police later that after entering the rear door and going upstairs toward her room she saw the shadow of the intruder in her mother's room. He took a laundry bag which he was carrying, evidently to use as a loot bag, and put it over the girl's head. Then he shoved

News Of The THEATRES

IT'S ARISTOPHANES!
By New Theatre Group.
Five-foot puppets, dancing, original music performed by a marching band and even food, are among the delights of a new production of Aristophanes' "The Congresswomen" to be given this weekend by a new group called The Princeton Twilight Theatre Company.

The comedy will be given in the 185 Nassau Street building used by Princeton University for various arts programs. Festivities will begin at 8 p.m. and the audience is asked to use the side entrance to the building. Admission is $1.

The new company consists of recent graduates of Princeton High School who had worked either in Street Theatre or— in some cases "and"— in a summer theatre comedies, including a Ber-group led by PHS faculty nard Shaw and a Jules member Lawrence Mansier. Pfeiffer, and after that, they plan on a children's story theatre and a final production.

At the moment, the group is operating on its own money, and is very grateful to the University for donating 185 Nassau.

In "The Congresswomen," Aristophanes presents the first women of Athens in revolt. The political situation has degenerated to such an extent

"Oh Dad, Poor Dad": A Good Night Of Old-Fashioned, Theatrical Circus

"Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet, and I'm Feeling So Sad," Summer Intime's first production of the season may be just the night of wackiness you need after fighting the crab grass, the mosquitoes or the commuter special. Arthur Kopit's play sprays a fair amount of venom over a small number of ideas in a generally entertaining and always bizarre fashion.

Intellectually, it is a light-weight, but if you are willing to fend off or ignore the assorted clichés and banalities which try to pass themselves off as message, then you can have a good night of old-fashioned theatrical circus.

And rest assured, director Peter Mark Shifter has pulled out all the stops and plays everything full blast with just the perfect cast for it.

Georgine Freedman stars as the black widow, Madame Rosepettle, and she acts up a storm. No, not just a storm, rather a cyclone, a tornado, a hurricane.

Whirling wildly about her are Eric Zwemer, her stuttering virgin of a son who stands to lose more than his fabulous coin and stamp collection to Kimberly Myers, the girl he watches through his telescope.

And sailing blissfully in the eye of the storm is Herbert McNeny, the superannuated Commodore Roseabove who little realizes that the pounding he hears is not his heart but the surf crashing on the rocks where the Madame will soon smash him and his "largest yacht in the Caribbean."

Field Day for Freud. Just in case you might miss the drift of the play, (impossible!) Philipp Jung has designed a field day for Freud set. There are swinging doors which eject characters as from a pneumatic tube. There are hungry, humming meat-eating plants straight out of a Mad Magazine parody of Sesame Street.

And finally there is the sinister Rosalinda, a small piscatorial delight who prefers Siamese kittens. All of these and the colors and design of the set are done in such a garish self-consciousness that they superbly support the far-out character of the production.

The lighting at times, particularly in first two scenes, was a bit tiring on the eyes. Also there seemed to be a lack of frontal lighting in the center stage area.

However, light designer Ron Brockway was uniformly successful in underscoring the frenetic pace and fantastic nature of the play. Particularly effective was the final bedroom scene where Mr. Brockway was able to meld the comic and the macabre into a chilling combination.

"Oh Dad, Poor Dad" will run for four more performances Thursday through Sunday, July 10, 11, 12 and 13. The Sunday show begins at 7:30 p.m., the others at 8:30 p.m.

The Hamilton Murray Theatre is located on the Princeton campus diagonally across from the Firestone Library. It is air-conditioned. For reservations, and sales are heavy for this production, call 609-452-8181. There is no on-campus parking, so you might plan to arrive a little earlier than usual.

Michael Godnick, junior at Indiana University and former Princeton High School student, is producer-director of the 1965-66 musical.
Like the comic strip, this "Superman" takes place in Metropolis, U.S.A. A dastardly professor (Rip Pellaton) wants to gain notoriety, so he plots with one of Clark Kent's fellow reporters on "The Daily Planet" (Tim Murphy) to unmask and overcome Superman (Chris Hulcombe). The professor does find a vulnerable spot in Superman (he needs to be loved), but he is foiled and started on the road to come-uppance before he can bring off his evil scheme.
Others in the cast are Allison Prigge, Chuck Musciano, Ellen Gittens, Andy Baan, Sandy Boyd, Cindy Chase, Susan Fox, Sarah Goldman, Vicki Greco, Ingrid Hukom, Don Holloway, Sharon Kehoe, Gregg Kohlhepp, Coleen McGowan, Aubrey Millman, Jnan Myers, Linda Pickens, Marylou Ruch, Susie Ruch, and Joe Wilcox.
The production staff consists of Donna Smith, choreographer; Jane Beard, stage manager; Liz Garland and Pat Ruch, assistant stage managers; Walter Broner, set designer; Chris Negus, lighting designer; and Joan Metzger, musical director.
"CHARLEY'S SAUNT"
In Princeton! Yes, Summer Intime's producers have decided to set their production of that ancient and creaking classic, "Charley's Aunt" in the Princeton of 1908, right spang in the middle of the Woodrow Wilson era. The famous farce was originally set in Oxford
"As I re-read the script," explains Brendan Burke, the director, "I thought on every page I turned, 'This could all take place in Princeton' and so finally, I decided, 'Why not?' It's an exciting concept and the Americanization works perfectly."
"Charley's Aunt" will open next Thursday, July 17, and will play that weekend (including Sunday night) and again July 24, 25, 26 and 27. The site will be Murray Theatre, as usual, and curtain-time 8:30.
"Charley's Aunt" is the one about the undergraduate (male) who agrees to impersonate an elderly aunt in order to provide the required chaperone for some proper young ladies.
Mr. Burke has in his cast Richard Ferrugio as a miserly uncle whose permission is necessary if the proper young ladies are to marry as they wish; Eric Zwemer, Joseph Harbeson and Jim Shankman as undergraduates, Kimberly Myers, Darcy Jammerone and Winnie Holzman as the young ladies, Fred Sheldon as the servant, Herbert McAneny as the retired admiral who has lost fortune but not charm, and Anne Sheldon as Charley's real aunt.

Next Reel.....
Three More Films. Next week's mid-week films from Summer Intime will be:
"Dinner at Eight," from Hollywood's Golden Era, has Wallace Beery, Jean Harlow, John Barrymore and Marie Dressler. George Cukor directed. It will be shown on Monday.
"Long Day's Journey Into Night," Eugene O'Neill's Pulitzer winner stars Katharine Hepburn, Ralph Richardson, Jason Robards and Dean Stockwell. Sidney Lumet was the director. It will be shown next Tuesday.
"Fail Safe," another Lumet film, has Henry Fonda, Walter Matthau and Dan O'Herlihy. This contemporary horror story starts when a mechanical failure sends a nuclear-loaded American plane toward Moscow.
All films start at 7:30 and are shown in McCormick Art Museum, behind Murray Theatre on the University campus.
WINNERS.....
At Midnight Cabaret. This Saturday's Midnight Cabaret, after the Summer Intime show, will feature Oscar-winning songs. You'll hear "The Continental," "Never on Sunday," "All the Way," "Call Me Irresponsible" and

A PRIZE FOR CHOIR

In Spoleto. The conductor of the Westminster Choir, Joseph Flummerfelt, has been awarded the "Golden Pegasus" for outstanding merit at the XVIII Festival of Two Worlds, in Spoleto, Italy. The award was presented by Mobil Oil Italiana. Dr. Flummerfelt was chosen because of Mobil's regard for the Westminster Choir's contribution to the Festival from 1972 through this year. The choir is chorus-in-residence at the Festival and is composed of students from Westminster Choir College in Princeton.

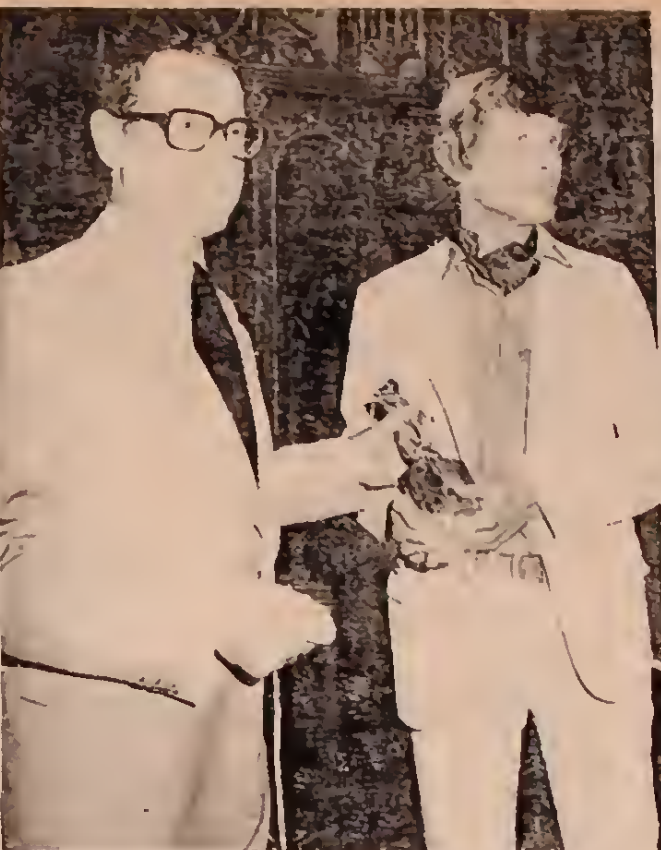

The Choir has given concerts and taken part in the traditional concert in the piazza for the past four years. It has also contributed to the presentation of such works as "Mahagonny," "Manon Lescaut" and the 1975 production, "Don Pasquale."

For "Pinafore." A ship from the Royal Navy will find an unlikely berth in Washington Crossing State Park's Open Air Theatre when the Gilbert and Sullivan "H.M.S. Pinafore" opens July 18.

"Pinafore" will play Friday and Saturday, July 18 and 19 and again Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 24, 25 and 26 at 8:30 p.m. The company will travel to Jersey shore July 21 for a single performance at the Bay Head Yacht Club.

Robert Willoughby Jones, conductor and producer, has led orchestras in Massachusetts, California, Michigan and Nebraska, as well as in New Jersey and at Washington Crossing. He conducted "Showboat" in the 1971 Crossing production, and "South Pacific" in 1973. Last November, he conducted the American premiere of Salieri's "Falstaff" in Boston.

The stage director and choreographer for "Pinafore" will be Ruth Kay Walker, who co-directed the Gilbert and Sullivan Association's "The Gondoliers" at McCarter two years ago. She has done choreography and directing for Association productions of "The Mikado," "Iolanthe" and "Pezance."

Philip Gilliam, scenic designer assigned to bring the Pinafore aground at the Open Air Theatre, was scene designer at McCarter last season. He is now on the staff of the Bucks County Playhouse.

FROM SHOT TO SAIL. At Rutgers Gun & Boat. If you are one of many who recently queued up to see "Jaws," swimming in the depths of the Atlantic may have lost some of its appeal. Therefore, this might just be the summer to try an alternative, such as canoeing along New Jersey's many streams and rivers.

The Princeton area alone offers Stony Brook, the Millstone River and Lake Carnegie as starters, and any of these are perfect for a cool and relaxing afternoon of exploring. Your own canoe offers the advantage of trying new areas, and in looking for one we found a most extensive stock at Rutgers Gun & Boat Center.

There is a full line of Grumman aluminum canoes, which are both light and strong. The traditional double-ended ones range from 13 to 20 feet in length (including several white water models with shallower drafts and extra ribs).

We also saw square-stern canoes which can accommodate a motor; and Grumman's exclusive sportcanoe which can be rowed, paddled, powered or sailed—the perfect all-round family boat. These canoes range from approximately $300 to $500 and they can all be equipped with sails.

FOR THE WATERFRONT: At Rutgers Gun & Boat Center, owner Mark Aziz displays Alcorn's new minifish, a smaller and less expensive version of the popular Sunfish. Both boats are suitable for lakes, bays or even the ocean on a calm day, and they come in a low maintenance fiberglass construction.

Mark Aziz, owner of Rutgers Gun & Boat, calls "the old for an unusually extensive stock."

The boat section also contains many necessary accessories from nylon rope and life preservers to anchors and propellers. We also noticed Evinrude motors which come as large as 135 HP; and the world famous British Seagull motors which although small (2 to 5 1/2 HP) are probably the best auxiliary motors for small boats, prices start at $245.

Of particular interest is the light 18-pound Rushton Pack Canoe, a racing model, the Wahoo sailing canoe with 75-square feet of sail and several kayaks, priced from $275.

For Weekend Sailors. For some years now Lake Carnegie has sported its own sailing club, the organizer of many weekend Sunfish races. This marvelous small boat with its easy-care fiberglass construction and foam and smaller Minifish) is available at Rutgers Gun & Boat.

Mr. Aziz also carries Starcraft products which include aluminum fishing boats, about $300 and up, and pop-up campers from about $1350. This store was once an automobile showroom and as a result there is ample room for an unusually extensive stock.

For hunters and sportsmen there are rifles and pistols by companies such as Browning, Marlin and Remington. In addition, there are the required shells for each gun, special belts, holsters, shooting goggles and knives. However, with the exception of the fluorescent orange hats now required to be worn by all hunters, Rutgers Gun & Boat does not carry any clothing.

Mr. Aziz, himself an avid gun collector, carries several replica black powder guns from the Civil War era as well as a number of antique guns. Currently in the store is a "Bellevue Wood" World War I Commemorative Colt .45 Automatic Pistol and a Colt SAA Bat Masterson gun of the Lawman Series, $220 and $395 respectively.

Because Mr. Aziz feels books are essential to any gun collection (He says, "You should really have one for each gun."), his store has always carried books. However, this area of his business has grown over the past 15 years into the Rutgers Book Center, one of the world's largest specialists in firearms, hunting, fishing, train and military books.

Large Book Center. They now publish a catalog containing over 1400 titles, reprint classic gun books as the Gun Room Press, and mail around the world. The catalog is available for 50 cents and contains such titles as "Identifying U. S. Muskets and Carbines," "Old Forts of the Southwest" and Smith and Wesson, 1857-1945," all of which are available at a 10 percent discount.

In a new venture Mr. Aziz has ordered some Western bronzes created by artist-sculptor Rusty Phelps. The first to be displayed will be a 17-inch figure of a Marshall holding a Winchester rifle. One of a limited edition of 15, this handsome figure costs $950.

He also plans to carry several of the Lo Scricciolo ceramic figures. Individually created by three Italian artists, each one depicts in great details a caricature ranging from photographers to chemists.

Rutgers Gun & Boat Center is located at 127 Raritan Avenue (Route 27) in Highland Park. Its hours are 10 to 9 Monday through Friday and 10 to 5 on Saturdays; and during the summer the store is closed Wednesdays.

News of the Theatres

Clothes, furniture, tools, antiques, and other items are being sought.

In addition to auction activities, two Playhouse carpenters are perfecting the theater this summer, adding sound-proofing, office space, and additional spectator facilities. Other staff members are working on George Street Playhouse banners, bumper stickers, balloons, t-shirts, a George Street Playhouse scrapbook, and a colorful booth that will appear at area art fairs and shopping centers to keep residents informed of Playhouse activities.

The GSP children's theater will resume activities in the fall with a production of Aesop's Fables at the Menlo Park Mall Theater. The GSP youth ensemble, a new project dealing with black theater, is currently being organized by Joanne Hillman. Both touring groups will be available to area schools for fall performances. Auditions for the youth ensemble will be held this Thursday at 7 p.m.

Social and community groups are being contacted to bring parties to the Playhouse for the 1975-76 season. The season provides area organizations with a major fund-raising resource. Productions are comparable in New York theater, yet are offered at a lower cost.

MONTGOMERY

The Towering Inferno. A harrowing and engrossing drama of a flaming holocaust in the world's tallest building, "The Towering Inferno" is one of the best disaster-themed movies. The meticulous depiction of a major skyscraper fire gains added impetus since the potential peril hits far closer to home than, say, a luxury cruise mishap.

A large and superb cast is headed by Steve McQueen and Paul Newman. Others are William Holden, Faye Dunaway, Fred Astaire, Susan Blakely, Richard Chamberlain, Jennifer Jones, O.J. Simpson, Robert Vaughn and Robert Wagner. Ms. Jones as an unmarried artist is outstanding.

A third of the way into the movie when the flames are out of control, the cream of society is trapped in a top-floor banquet room, the staircases collapse, helicopters can't land, and the fight to salvage as many people as possible begins, the film rarely loses its tension. It shows its class at every turn.

to the question of how many units, apparently concluding that site plan standards were met through the imposition of conditions.

In its conditional approval to the project's site plan, the Board is requiring submission of plans to stabilize the soil temporarily while construction is in progress, and permanently, afterwards; a grading plan; plans for construction of a retention basin for storm water, a plan for such plantings as ground cover, trees and shrubs.

"This is the most exhaustively studied project, environmentally, that I have ever seen," commented Vivian Carlin, from the audience, after each side had made its case. "Opponents talk about pressure. Yes, I agree: Committee has indeed reacted to pressure and properly so, to the need of Princeton's elderly and low-income who need housing."

Mrs. Carlin said there is a "consistent waiting list," and she pointed to the 500 applicants for PCH Village units. "At some point, we must act," she declared. "Are the opponents engaged in these delaying tactics in hopes of killing the project? The way they smiled when Mr. Jamieson said options would die in November answers that question."

Environmental Details. From the bench, Committee member Elizabeth Hutter asked detailed and technical questions about soil and tree preservation, drainage, and run-off calculations.

"Drainage isn't going to be a problem," Mr. Jamieson replied to her questions. "We'll comply with everything the Planning Board has asked us to do."

When Mrs. Hutter asked whether the Federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD) agency would pay for tree care, Housing Authority Executive Karin Slaby said yes, they do so now for the Authority's other public housing projects.

Mr. Jamieson must now go back to site plan review with plans for meeting the conditions, which gives opponents and proponents, as Mayor Bleiman phrased it, "a second round."

He must also go to the Township Zoning Board. The zoning officer, W.J. Shinn, has ruled that the changed plans require the Authority and Mr. Yedlin to go the entire route all over again, obtaining a new use variance before they can get a building permit. Mr. Jamieson said Monday night that he thinks Mr. Shinn's position is wrong, and will ask for a reversal. Since the only place he can get a reversal is the Zoning Board, he is inevitably headed again for that body.

Mr. Shinn has also pointed out that Mr. Yedlin needs Planning Board approval for a sub-division plan to consolidate the parcels of land into one lot. At present, lot lines go through some of the buildings, Mr. Shinn says. So far, no sub-division plans have been filed with the Planning Board.

SPRINGDALE HARMED?

Club Asks Complaint Dismissal. Declaring that Springdale Golf Club has suffered "irreparable harm" from the investigation of charges that it discriminated against a black applicant who was denied membership, the club has asked the court to dismiss charges brought by the state's Civil Rights Division.

In a show-cause petition signed July 1 by Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch, the club's board of governors charges that Civil Rights representatives have harassed and intimidated them, in spite of Springdale's contention that it is a private club and hence not within the jurisdiction of the Civil Rights Division.

Springdale rejected the membership application of Marvin Trotman, basketball coach and guidance counsellor at Princeton High School.

In its petition to the court, Springdale says that it leases its land from Princeton University and offers the privileges of the club to University officials. Nevertheless, the petition declares, Springdale "is by any

Senior Citizens! Come to Landau's Outing

You'll be there, of course! Where? Landau's "Senior Celebration" next Thursday July 17 from 2 p.m. until 7 p.m. on the grounds around "Prospect," on the University campus.

It's the second annual "event" sponsored by Landau's store for the senior citizens of the Princeton community. Register! Where? Landau's. Call 924-3494 and tell them you'll be there, because they have to know ahead of time to order the food.

Yes, food. But just because the food is on Mr. Landau and "Prospect" is on the University, don't think this is a charitable enterprise. You're invited whether you live on Hodge Road or Harrison, Library Place or Leigh. You're invited whether you're male or female. But you do have to be a senior citizen.

Croquet, horseshoes, bingo, shuffleboard, checkers, bocce.

"Free to be You and Me" will be performed (excerpts, that is) by young actors from Street Theatre under the direction of Debbie Bellow, assisted by Joe Kendall. There will be a sing-along, and music. Mr. Landau hopes for fiddlers, accordion players, piano-players, even people who tell jokes out of Joe Miller.

So far, over 100 people have already signed up. Sign up your mother, father or grandmother and grandfather, and make sure they get there. Bring a crony. Transportation, if you need it.

measure in fact or in law, a private club." The University has been named in the civil rights action, but it did not join the club's board of governors in asking for dismissal of the complaint.

STROKE CLUB TO MEET

For Picnic. The Princeton Area Stroke Club will hold a picnic at the home of Mrs. George C. Knaeffer, 162 Red Hill Road, Princeton, on Saturday, July 12. Luncheon will be served at 1. All stroke victims and their families are cordially invited to attend. For information telephone Mrs. Knaeffer, 924-2299, or the Mercer County Heart Association, 882-7722.

POSTAL UNIT OPENS

Friday in Shopping Center. A new self-service postal unit, in the form of an attractive red, white and blue kiosk, will open Friday in the Princeton Shopping Center. The postal kiosk duplicates many services offered by the main Post Office, including vending machines for single stamps, stamp books, postal cards, envelopes and minimum parcel post insurance, package mailing complete with scales, a rate map and a dollar bill and coin changer.

Located between Bon Appetit and Bamberger's in the Mall at the Princeton Shopping Center, the kiosk offers the additional convenience of abundant free parking, as well as 24-hour, 7-day service.

THEOREM ART SHOW

At Historical Society. A display of theorem paintings handcrafted by Mrs. Dorothy Plaganis of Scotts Corner Road, Plainsboro, is now on display in the entrance hall of Bainbridge House, the Historical Society's headquarters.

Theorem painting-- the name derives from the mechanical or theorematological process used -- is the art of stencilling and painting on velvet. Fruits, flowers and landscapes were usually depicted in this art which was popular in the first half of the 19th century and is currently enjoying a revival.

In conjunction with the exhibit, Mrs. Plaganis will conduct a class in Theorem Painting in August at Bainbridge House, 158 Nassau Street. Classes will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 9, beginning Thursday August 7 and ending Tuesday August 27. The cost is $30 for members of the Society and $33 for non-members. Those who wish to enroll may call the Society at 921-6748.

This exhibit as well as the "Country Store" can be viewed at the Historical Society of Princeton on Tuesdays through Fridays from 10 to 4 and on Saturdays and Sundays from 2-4 p.m.

NOW TO VIEW SLIDES

At Meeting Wednesday. The Central New Jersey Chapter of NOW will hold its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, at 8 p.m., at the Woman's Place, 14-1/2 Witherspoon Street. Following a brief business meeting, Joan Bartl will present a slide series for screening by the membership. Ms. Bartl is one of the principals in WOWI (Women on Words and Images), the group which produced the landmark studies, "Dick and Jane as Victims," (sex stereotyping in children's readers), "Channeling Children" (prime time TV stereotyping), and "Doctor, Lawyer, Indian Chief," an analysis of sex role stereotyping in career education materials.

The slide series in preparation parallels WOWI's latest book, "Doctor, Lawyer, Indian Chief," and is intended for use in academic and in-service training of career counsellors. Members and friends of NOW are urged to attend this important session and to participate in criticism and suggestions for the final form of the slide presentation. All three books, with their parallel rental slide shows, may be ordered from WOWI, Dept. H, P.O. Box 2163, Princeton.

MAILBOX

ORC Poll Criticized.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Methinks Harry W. O'Neill, executive vice president of Opinion Research Corporation, protesteth too much about criticism of a poll done by ORC for the Business Roundtable. ("Mailbox," June 26.)

He said that "because" the poll allegedly showed that a majority of people oppose creating a new consumer agency in Washington, that "certain elected officials and others who support such an agency have attacked the survey with a charge of bias."

What bothers the critics, however, is not so much the results as the wording of the questions and the subsequent use of the tainted results for political propaganda purposes. Senator Charles Percy became suspicious and asked the Library of Congress to determine whether the poll was slanted for the purpose of producing a desired result.

The Library concluded that the poll indeed was stacked. But it doesn't take the Library of Congress to make the point. The words themselves do, as can be seen from the exact question asked by ORC:

"Those in favor of setting up an additional federal consumer agency on top of all the other agencies say it is needed because the agencies we have are not getting the job done by themselves."

Those who oppose setting up the additional agency say that we already have plenty of government agencies to protect the consumer and it's just a matter of making them work better.

How do you feel? Do you favor setting up an additional consumer protecting agency over all the others or do you favor doing what is necessary to make the agencies we now have more effective in protecting consumer interests?"

Not only is the question biased against the new agency, but it also misrepresents the situation by implying that an additional (a word used three times) agency like the others is being advocated and that there is a simple way to make existing agencies "work better." Since 1887, a succession of Administrations has tried to make the Interstate Commerce Commission, for one, work better. Yet the agency, like many others, only gets worse, becoming more and more a captive of the industry it is supposed to regulate.

WANT EXTRA INCOME? A temporary or part time job may be the answer. Read the Help Wanted ads in this issue of TOWN TOPICS for a varied selection of opportunities open to you.

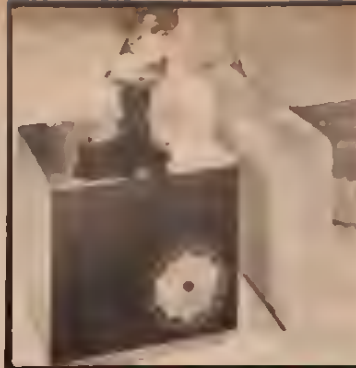

Why would a reliable polling organization use such an obviously slanted question that also misrepresents the situation, especially when it knows that the sponsoring business organization is likely to use the results for propaganda purposes?

The integrity of public opinion polling is not enhanced by such a performance. More important is the effect on the political process. Should pollsters be allowed to use questions designed to get people to testify unknowingly against their own interests on matters of national importance? Should any significance be given to polls which seek opinions from people on subjects they do not adequately understand?

Isn't it time for responsible polling organizations to face these issues instead of accusing politicians of evil and ignorance?

AFS GROUP VISITS

With Princeton Families.
On Tuesday, July 1, a bus rolled up to Princeton High School carrying 36 AFSers—foreign exchange students of the American Field Service Program. These young people from 25 countries had spent the past 10 months in North and South Carolina and Virginia, living with families and attending school there. Now they were on a two week bus tour to see a different part of the United States, get to know other AFSers from other countries and experience more American lifestyles in several short home visits.

During their stay in Princeton, the students enjoyed several afternoons at Community Park, to which they were given tickets, and a guided tour of the University campus. They also had a day at the shore, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs.

Here's an interesting question concerning a man who played both baseball and football ...
What member of pro
football's Hall of Fame hit a home run his first time up in big league baseball? ... Answer is Ace Parker who starred in the National Football League in the 1930s and 1940s ... He also played major league baseball and hit a homer on his first at bat in the big leagues, with the A's in 1937.

Here's a believe-it-or-not from sports ... There was once a game between two teams which wound up with both teams losing the same game! ... It happened at a soccer game in West Germany ... The field was wet, but the referee decided it was in playable condition ...
However, the managers of both teams thought it was too wet, and not wanting to risk player injuries, they refused to play ... So the referee forfeited the game -- AND GAVE BOTH TEAMS A LOSS IN THE STANDINGS! ... That's the only time a game involving two teams ended with both teams getting a loss.

What are the most runs ever scored by one team in a pro baseball game? ... In the Texas League, June 15, 1902,
Corsicana beat Texarkana 51-3, and that's never been topped in professional baseball.

the plate including one homer. Al Anderson hit four for four for Cities Service.
The First National Bank of Princeton used back to back homers by pitcher Malcolm Rogers and Wes Cawley to take a close one from Forrester Research Center 10-9. Cawley was two for two for the night, and Tom Ryan hit three for four in the game. First National faces undefeated Firmenich in a double header next week.

E.R. Squibb went into the plus side of the won-lost ledger with a 6-5 defeat of American Cyanamid, in a game that was a total team effort behind the pitching of Steve Newborn. American Cyanamid's Pete Wepplo contributed the sole home run of the game. And the Institute for Defense Analysis scored an 11-5 victory over RCA(B) for its second win of the season. Floyd Jackson and Robert Cowell made the difference both getting three hits. One of Cowell's safeties was a homer.

The annual all-star game will be held this Thursday night at the RCA David Sarnoff Research Center field beginning at 6. Some of the best players in the county will be featured in a game which always provides some exciting slow-pitch softball action. There is no admission fee.

On Saturday Fagerstrom, the tournament's third seed, had upset top-seeded Don Smith of Lawrenceville, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, while Stoner defeated second seed and fellow Trentonian, Ken Wilson.

Fagerstrom, a senior at Princeton University, is an instructor in the Princeton Community Tennis Program this summer. Like Sandy McLanahan, winner of the men's tournament in 1973 and 1974, Fagerstrom has been a member of the University team for the past three years.

In the finals he relied on a consistent serve to attack the net, and his volley placements were nearly perfect.

Sixty-eight players entered this year's tournament directed by John Bauman.

week with a 4-2 win over PBA as Tony Opperman struck out seven. Opperman got support from Jim Baxter and Tom Breithaupt, who had two hits apiece, and by a Bob Cronin double. PBA was led by Ron Ward, who had two hits.

Against PB&T, Tiger Garage jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning as Jim Baxter, who led the Tiger batters with two hits, Tony Opperman, and Jon Miller all singled. However, PB&T came back with three runs to take a 3-2 lead after six innings.

In the sixth inning, PB&T exploded for four runs to break the game open. Carl Nazzaro, Seth Sanders, and Mario Mangone all doubled to earn PB&T a comfortable lead over Tiger Garage and move into a tie for first. Nazzaro struck out nine along the way to pick up his biggest win of the season.

Paraka had two goals and one assist in the Navy game and six goals and two assists in the rout of Red. Navy's George Mazell had three goals and Red's Bob Finnell two goals and an assist to pace the losers.

In other games Orange defeated Blue, 9-4, and White, 12-11. The victors' Bill Ryan was the high scorer in both games with four goals in each contest. He also had two assists against Blue.

ENGINE NO. 1 ROLLSON
In Little League. Seven games into the season, Engine No. 1 has yet to taste defeat in the PYBA Little League.
No. 1 gained its seventh consecutive victory with a 21-7 drubbing of PIASC. Winning pitcher Tim Hunt slammed two triples and received additional support from Judd Petrone, who doubled and hit a home run, and from Brent Robinson, who also homered. Also connecting for the winners were Kevin Johnson, who pounded out three hits, and Jamie Van Raalt, who doubled.

Post 76 defeated the Eagles, 17-2. Winning pitcher Chip Kleiber joined with reliever Terry Phox to strike out thirteen and doubled and single to help his own cause. He was joined by Peter Nelson, who had two hits, and Bruce O'Neill, who doubled. Aaron Gross led the Eagle batters, accounting for two of the losers' three hits.
The Elks pinned an 8-4 loss on Roma Eterna as Joe Levine won his fourth with an eleven strike-out performance. Reed Horovitz, Jeff Suber, and Dave Hill each had two hits. Hill also adding a double. Levine and Sam Reed drove in key runs for the Elks with singles. Roma Eterna was led by Steve MacDonald who homered and by Dave Yim's two hits.

Engine Co. 3 defeated UA Local 380, 9-5, behind the pitching of Danny Kirton. Dan Miller provided the power with two doubles. For Local 380 Bill Snead had two hits, one of them a double, and Scott Roney doubled in the losing effort.

WE'RE NO. 1
Princeton Babe Ruth 10-2-1. The Princeton Senior Babe Ruth team last week continued to build its lead with victories over Hamilton VFW and Hightstown to boost its record to 10-2-1, the best in the county. And this is Princeton's first year in the league.

In its second meeting with Hamilton VFW, Princeton had to rally for five runs in the last two innings to win, 7-5.

Off to a fast start, Princeton wasted no time in taking a 2-0 lead as Paul Soderman and Eric Jahn both doubled and Greg Robinson singled in the top of the first. However, Hamilton struck back with one in the first, three in the third when Lonnie Cathel, Joe DeAngelo, and Joe Tobias all connected, and added one more in the fifth, to lead 5-2.

In the sixth, Princeton tied the score at 5-5, taking advantage of two Hamilton errors. Soderman's second double of the game, and singles by Jahn and Scott Thompson.

Princeton reached Hamilton pitcher Dave Aust for the winning runs as Soderman, Jahn, and Ed Volz all drew walks and Dave Robinson and pitcher Dana Nini single. It was Nini's third win in four starts.

Come From Behind Win. Princeton picked up its fifth consecutive victory with another come-from-behind win, this time an 8-6 decision over Hightstown. Once again the winners gained the advantage early when Dave Seagers singled to drive in Greg Robinson for a 1-0 lead after two innings.

Hightstown came back in the third against pitcher Mike Boonin, ripping two doubles and three singles to take a 4-1 lead.

Princeton wasted no time regaining the lead. In the third Boonin, Eric Jahn, and Scott Thompson all singled and in the fourth a walk to Ed Volz, a three-base error followed by a wild pitch enabled Princeton to regain the lead, 5-4. After Hightstown had come back to tie the game at 5-5, Princeton put an end to the see-saw affair when it scored three runs in the fifth. A Dave Walker double and singles by Soderman, Thompson, and Jahn put Princeton ahead for good. Boonin boosted his record to 4-0.

SWIM WINS CONTINUE
For Nassau Club. The Nassau Swim Club continued its undefeated record with a victory over the Cranbury club, 157-141, last Monday.

Many individual swimmers helped Nassau win. Paul Sally won two events—the 12-and-under breaststroke and the 12-and-under butterfly. Van Van Horn won the 8-and-under butterfly and helped the 8-and-under boys win their relay.

Other winners were Van Horn in the 12-and-under diving, Curtis Hsiang in 12-and-under diving, John Bolster in 8-and-under breaststroke, Joel Harris in 14-and-under backstroke, Sue Danielson in 17-and-under backstroke, Pierre Coutin in 17-and-under breaststroke, Tony Garvey in 12-and-under freestyle, Marc Coutin in 14-and-under freestyle, Barb Van Horn in 12-and-under individual medley, Charley Bolster in 12-and-under individual medley and Mary Bolster in 17-and-under individual medley.

Two Nassau relay teams won—both 8-and-under. For the girls, the team was Nika Nystrom, Libby Burkman, Peggy Bolster and Lisa White, and the boys' team was composed of Mark Andres, Van Horn, Michael Alberts and Simon Miller.

"ARCHITECTURE IS FROZEN MUSIC"

Nature created the setting; architect and owners, the house; and together they composed an impressive symphony! Set on a stunning four acre hillside and set off by its many rugged boulders and towering trees, the house was designed to flow with the land. Large areas of bronze tinted glass take advantage of breathtaking outlooks to south and west, small intimate balconies and protective "play decks" bring inside and outside together. Views are everywhere.

The house is spacious—with a living room whose ceiling soars almost three stories high, and six or seven bedrooms situated for the ultimate in privacy for parents and guests—yet intimate and warm in its use of materials, color and scale. Throughout the house, from superb kitchen, tasteful baths, dressing rooms, numerous closets, two zone air conditioning to the smallest detail, only the best has been used. This is a home to enthrall all admirers of fine contemporary design.

 Karl and Pat Light, Brokers

This brick and frame two-story in a pleasant Edgerstoune area looks from the outside like an appealing small house, but the inside opens up to provide ample living space for a large, multi-aged family. On the first floor are entrance hall; pretty living room with fireplace and sliding glass doors opening to the wooded grounds; dining room with bay window; cheery kitchen with eating space; 3 good bedrooms and 2 baths. The second floor consists of two spacious rooms big enough for "dormitories" but with cozy, eavesy appeal of attic hideaways; many built-in shelves and cabinets; and full bath. Most of the basement area has been handsomely finished into a fine big, light family room and a good study (usable as a 6th bedroom) and a half bath with plumbing for shower. In addition, there is a "game room" big enough for a ping-pong table and a utility-work room. The house is solid, well-built, in good condition, and attractive. Combine those assets with all that space and an excellent location, and we think you'll agree that this house is unusually fairly priced.

PRINCETON: Perhaps you have a large family, one with diverse interests and different dedications; if this is the case you'll be thrilled with this offering. It is a spacious, substantially built ten room multi level that has the appointments for relaxed, private living. There are nine rooms (5 bedrooms and 3 baths) a utility room and a two car garage; it features a gracious dining room, a completely equipped kitchen with generous eating area, a secluded den with fireplace and private patio. Centrally air-conditioned, with drapes, carpeting and other extras, this has to be one of the best buys in Princeton $89,500

PRINCETON: A value conscious Princetonian will "snap-up" this conveniently located three bedroom colonial. Just a walk from many of the University's facilities and situate on a lot (100 x 150) of mature trees and shrubs you can have good living space for your family and not be burdened with high maintenance, taxes, and carrying costs. Price below reproduction $61,500

PRINCETON: One of a kind, and a most unusual and desirable kind it is: a 3/4 acre wooded lot on a lightly travelled winding road (Mt. Lucas). It has all utilities and may be built upon now. Most Interesting $32,500

ROCKY HILL: The setting is a quaint but charming village; the house a compact, well maintained 7 room cottage, the lot is almost a half acre that has the shelter of mature trees and shrubs and the pleasure factor of a pool. The interior appointments of central air conditioning, a recently renovated kitchen, and several freshly painted rooms make this cottage of the thirties most functional for the seventies. The location, house style, and lot appointment could make this most useable for a resident professional use. A good buy $62,700

WEST WINDSOR: Convenience is the key word for this three bedroom ranch that is close to schools, shopping and Penn Central Commuting. An easy relaxed floor plan affords good room flow, while the superior "Quaker Maid" kitchen makes meal preparation easy, and the adjacent, spacious family room is perfect for informal entertaining. We think you should act quickly $47,500

...FROM THE PROFESSIONALS

A FINER HOUSE IN PRINCETON WOULD BE HARD TO FIND... Not too far out on Cherry Hill Road in Princeton Township, there is a commanding all-brick ranch that is just about perfect in every sense. Built six years ago by its owners after years of thinking and dreaming about it, the house reflects loving care and quality in every portion of its 4000 square feet!

From the moment you enter the gracious entrance foyer with Vermont marble floor, you can only be delighted with the comfortable, cheerful family living that can take place here. The large living room features an exquisite marble fireplace and mantel and opens to an inviting dining room that could accommodate elegant dining with ease; the Quaker Maid kitchen has to be seen to be believed, with every convenience imaginable. An easy island pass-through opens to the cedar-paneled family room with brick fireplace, beamed ceiling and powder room. An ideal outdoor patio (40' x 20') opens from the living room, family room and kitchen, for the ultimate in summer entertaining. The bedroom wing consists of four bedrooms, three full baths, ceramic-tiled, and convenient utility-sewing room.

The quality extras not often found include GE self-cleaning ovens; 9' ceilings; handmade wrought iron railings and dividers inside and out; burglar and fire alarms; central vacuum system; inter-com and stereo units; intricate indirect and outside lighting systems; prefinished flooring of parquet and random width cedar; Spanish and French chandeliers and sconces. An enormous basement with special precautionary drainage built-in is clean, high and dry. A three-car garage with two electric eyes.

Situated on five acres of tall trees, sweet-smelling pines and many rhododendrons, there is a possibility of future subdivision. Large boulders and a circular drive enhance the natural setting. All in all, it's a decorator's delight and a dream come true ... ready for you to turn the key and call your own.

HERE IS THE PERFECT RETREAT ONLY THREE MILES FROM NASSAU STREET! Province Line Road ... in delightful estate area ... seclusion, convenience, seven plus acres with stream and a lovely wooded setting at the end of a winding lane! All on one floor; living room-fireplace, paneled wainscoting, beamed ceiling, dining room, kitchen with utility and laundry room, family room, study or bedroom, three more bedrooms, two baths. Not to mention a flagstone terrace for total enjoyment of this unique property. $97,000.
